Dear Sister and Brothers,

The second reading this weekend is taken from Romans 8: 28 30. St. Augustine says, “God created us without our consent or cooperation but he will not (and cannot) save us without our cooperation. “This is clear from what St. Paul says today. God has done, and continues to do, everything that is necessary to bring us to heaven when we die. However, unless we cooperate and do our part, heaven will not be our future abode.

This should make each one of us stop and think! Are we on the right road? Do we love god? Are our prevailing ambitions worldly or other-worldly? We have to take and interest in the affairs of this world but do all our interests end there? These are questions every Christian should be put to oneself and honestly answer. We are living in an era which is daily growing more worldly. On all side of us we have a strong rushing current of worldliness, a current difficult to avoid or swim against.

As in the he parables of hidden treasure and fine pearl, we are called on to imitate the two wise men, and surrender all our earthly possessions if necessary in order to gain eternal life. Heaven in within the reach of all, who follow the ordinary vocations of life and partake of this world’s joys and pleasures within the framework of God’s commandments: love God and loving our neighbours.

To follow God’s commandments is not easy, but we are not relying on weak human nature, we have within our reach in the Church all the spiritual and supernatural aids we need. Our twenty first century, it is true, is so engrossed in chasing after the earthly comforts and pleasure. Remember this: we shall not be asked, “What did your neighbour do?”; but, “what did you do?” If we lose the pearl of great price in the eternity of happiness God has offered to us – it will not be the fault of others, and the fault will be ours and ours only. Let us keep in mind the words of St. Ignatius of Loyola, All the things in this world are gifts of God, created for us, to be the means by which we can come to know him better, love him more surely, and serve him more faithfully."

Many Blessings,

Fr. Anthoni Adimai SdM. Administrator - Adelaide Cathedral Parish.
