

Today's gospel gives us two models of personal relationship to Jesus: as a servant or as a friend. At any given point in our faith journey one of these two models is dominant. Either we see our relationship to Christ mainly in terms of master-servant or in terms of friend-friend. Jesus is seen more as a master to be feared, respected and obeyed than as a friend to love in intimacy and familiarity.

Today's gospel challenges us to rethink our relationship with Christ because, evidently, Christ himself prefers to relate with his disciples as friend to friend rather than as master to servant. He tells them at the Last Supper: "I do not call you servants any longer, because the servant does not know what the master is doing; but I have called you friends."

While calling us to this new relationship of friendship, Jesus tells us that we all are fit to come to his level of relationship as friends. At the end let us pray this prayer coming from Fr. Raymond Suriani:

"Dear Jesus, help us. We want your love in our hearts. We want your love in our families. We want your love to pervade our society and the world. Give us all special grace at this Mass, so that we will be your instruments in making this change happen. Give us all the special grace we need to love one another in the very same way that you have loved us. Amen!"
